

EUREKA'S CASE.

The JOURNAL has no inside knowledge of the matters at stake in all that has been said concerning the consolidation of the Register's and Receiver's office at Eureka, and the appointment of W. W. Hobart. The JOURNAL would heartily endorse Mr. Hobart for any position he might wish, so far as that is concerned. But the JOURNAL will not allow what was said by the Eureka Leader, in its issue of August 1st, to go without contradiction, especially that personal portion in which the JOURNAL is directly interested. After berating Senator Jones for his action in refusing to oust the present officials of the land office at Eureka, and asserting that Jones has played fast and loose, the Leader says:

The facts are simply these: The Senator is calculating the chances of being his own successor. Last winter a caucus was held at Carson in which Kinkead, Yerington, Powning and other lights participated. An alliance of offensive and defensive was formed, and a programme for the coming election mapped out. The programme included Kinkead for Governor, Powning for Congress, Leonard for the Supreme Bench, and so on down. It was also agreed to take in Jones, and that the combination would make a square fight to return Jones to the Senate.

Whoever asserts that any such caucus was held, and Powning present, tells a lie. Or whoever declares that Powning has in any manner been connected with any programme for the coming campaign tells a falsehood. The Leader further says:

Armed with this authority Kinkead left for Washington and submitted the wants of the caucus. Jones was asked to secure Daggett's appointment to the Sandwich Islands in order to give Kinkead a clear field, and to give Sabin the position formerly filled by Hillier, so that Leonard would have plain sailing. Jones entered heartily into this scheme, but with his usual procrastination failed to secure immediate results, so Powning reinforced Kinkead. Daggett's bill was secured in time, but Sabin's hung fire.

All of which is the veriest kind of "bosh." Daggett himself applied for the position of Minister to the Hawaiian Islands, a fact Powning did not know until Jones told him so in Washington. Gen. Sabin was not given the position of District Judge in order that Leonard might have plain sailing for the Supreme Bench, because Leonard himself would not have declined the position. A life position of $3,500 per year is preferable to the uncertainties of a seat on the Supreme Bench even at $6,000. Gen. Sabin was appointed because it was the fair thing to do for him and for Eastern Nevada. Kinkead and Leonard, both hailing from the same county, cannot naturally work together politically. That fact ought to be apparent to so shrewd a political observer as the editor of the Leader; hence his mistake when drawing such conclusions as he has.

So far as what the Leader says about Whitman and Wren, we are not advised as to the situation. We do know that Judge Whitman hopes to be one of the two new Circuit Judges for this Coast. If Mr. Wren is a candidate for the Senate he has a perfect right to be. Evidently in providing for Daggett Jones thought he might remove a formidable competitor, and the chances are this was the controlling idea with him, and he was not doing it to get Daggett out of the gubernatorial fight in favor of Kinkead or anybody else, except in so far as it might keep Daggett out of the Senatorial fight. The Leader also says this:

This combination did not take in either Mr. Wren or any of his friends. In fact the Eureka delegation was to be handed over to Kinkead by persons utterly opposed to Wren. This also suited Jones, as it gave him another opportunity of sitting down on another Senatorial aspirant. Whether the goods can be delivered as agreed upon remains to be seen.

Well, while Jones is sitting on Wren, what is he going to do with Hon. W. W. Bishop, of Eureka, who is also a candidate for Senator, and the person referred to in the above as opposed to Wren.

And when Bishop is provided for may there not be other Richmonds or even the dark horse, Mr. John Mackay.

James Orndorff, a well known sportsman from Nevada, is making preparations to open a club room in the rear of Daly & Morehouse's saloon, Maine street, Butte City. All previous efforts in the way of fitting up club rooms are to be surpassed.

The Virginia and Carson papers attribute the spiky political article in the Eureka Leader, of the 1st, to Senator Hobart. That's a mistake, as Mr. Anderson, the editor, returned from Washington several days ago.

The Virginia Chronicle asserts that John Mackay has no desire to be U. S. Senator.

JERRY SCHOOLING.

While Stuffed With Love's Calf Swallows His Shirt.

[Enraka Sentinel, August 2d]

Several old-time Nevadans were talking over the political outlook on the street in Eureka yesterday with reference to the nomination of a man for Governor by the Democrats. A good deal of speculation was indulged in about the "dark horse" which some friendly Republican journals have been intimating will be trotted out to take the nomination in case there should be more than two candidates before the Convention and it should turn out that neither Adams nor Canavan can be nominated. This is all bosh, of course, for it is extremely unlikely that there will be more than one ballot, or that there will be any candidates before the Convention except Canavan and Adams. But it does not require much ground for speculation in politics and the inevitable "dark horse" business came to the surface in the conversation. Jerry Schooling was most talked of in this connection. "Honest Old Sorrel Top," as Gen. Kittrell called him in the Convention four years ago at Carson, the man who had a wallet in his pocket that contained half the State's treasury and would not use a cent of it when "broke" in San Francisco, but preferred to borrow a stake to get back home on instead. The temptation to produce a portion of "Kit's" speech on the occasion is irresistible. Jerry is a big man, but easily moved by oratory; and as "Kit" sailed aloft in a kind of rhetoric that he holds a monopoly over it sounded like a funeral oration and brought great tears to Jerry's eyes, who sat disconsolate on a back seat with head bowed down on his inseparable companion, a stout bickory cane, grown in Missouri. He was withdrawing Jerry from the list of aspirants for Treasurer. Said "Kit": "Mr. Chairman, during the last four years of arduous official labor it has monthly fallen within the purview of my duties as a public servant to assist in counting the moneys of this great commonwealth. Now, Mr. Chairman, I ask the question and answer it myself, where was honest old Sorrel Top on these occasions? Sir (here Jerry broke down completely, Kit's fervor literally melting him)—he sat there, sir, and saw the money counted!"

But to the story which one of the street politicians told of Jerry's early life in Missouri. Jerry was born in that State and started life naturally. As most boys do down there, where it is hot, and where shoes are fine personal apparel used to be too high for the nut of the plebeian kid, Jerry wore nothing during the season of dog days but a tow shirt—a long one with one button at the neck and enclosing him to the heels. Jerry loved a girl, but was too bashful ever to mention it. His Dulcinea lived in a cottage near by, whither he used to ramble barefooted and his shirt sporting in the breeze, and take shy peeps at her. One day he went softly up to the cottage door, and finding his love standing at a spinning jenny with her back to him, he stood watching her, transfixed, while his soul went out to her in silent adoration. His eyes dilated and his mouth slowly drained love drops. Alas! there came a rude shock to his ecstasy. While he looked and drilled in blissful unconsciousness of every worldly thing but the girl at the spinning wheel a calf had come up behind him and taken hold of the skirt of his only garment with its mouth. It started in vigorously to chew and swallow and swallow and chew until its stomach became distended with Jerry's shirt, but it kept right on swallowing more of it. In making one grand effort to take in another mouthful its cold under lip struck the flesh of Jerry's hot back. In the mind of our hero love immediately gave place to horror. He did not lose a moment but turning tail he glanced the hungry calf between his exposed person and the girl at the wheel. With energy supplied by despair he dragged the destroyer of his bliss down the hill a hundred yards, extracting a mouthful of his shirt from the beast's maw for every two or three frantic leaps and jerks that he made. He finally recovered his clothing, all moistened with bovine saliva preparatory to digestion. He says he never could summon up courage enough to look behind to see whether Dulcinea had observed him in his awkward flight. He drew such a picture of himself in his own mind as he fled with the calf attached to him that he never dared to go near the girl again, or hardly ever think of her.

Congressman Cassidy did not vote on the River and Harbor veto. Although he voted for the bill originally, it was stated on the floor of the House, when the veto was under consideration, that if he was present he would vote to sustain the veto, but had paired.

Speaker Keifer has been renominated and will be re-elected.

A Brooklyn man has devised an ingenious scheme for keeping people in clothes (new ones) at the rate of $2 a month. The customer pays $12 and gets the first suit. Every succeeding month thereafter he selects and has made to order a new suit, for which he pays down $1, having first surrendered the suit he just discarded. At the end of the year the $10 is returned to him. The suits he has worn and discarded are pressed and sold over again, this time outright, as second-hand goods, for about the same sum as the first man paid for their hire.

The Wasp tells about a young man of Oakland who was an enthusiast in the matter of bicycles. He hired out to work in a sawmill, and one day, in a fit of abstraction, he got astride a circular saw. This ends the story of the young man of Oakland who was an enthusiast in the matter of bicycles, and he hired out to work in a sawmill.

Harvesting at Greenville.

Of the crop prospects in its section the Greenville Bulletin says: "The farmers are now busy cutting and hauling hay. A good crop was expected, but the expectation was not equal to the reality. On most of the ground the grass is so thick that it is difficult to bunch it up, and strangers who travel around the valley express their surprise, and wonder what will be done with the great amount of hay out. The best of timothy hay is now delivered in Greenville for ten dollars per ton. No damage worth mentioning has been done by the grasshoppers on the Blood ranch, where they appeared in greatest number; after destroying about three acres of oats the pests disappeared without doing any further harm and none have since been seen. The grain crop does not look so well as the hay; the spring was late and the dry season set in suddenly, and on some ground the seed had to be irrigated to make it sprout. Of course this kept back the growth very much and on some ranches the grain is now thin and weak. On some favored spots where the ground is naturally moist, grain never looked better than at present, but the whole crop will hardly be equal to the average. This is especially applicable to wheat; oats may do a little better. Several farmers planted the Russian white oats last Spring, and in every case, so far as we know, this variety is making remarkable growth. No doubt the valley will raise a good surplus of oats, but it is certain that a great amount of wheat will have to be brought from outside. Potatoes and other vegetables will make a big crop and will be of first rate quality. A large amount of apples and other fruits will be needed."

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, AND CONSUMPTION.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words, among not only one, but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S Cherry Pectoral. It has been known to the public about forty years, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well founded if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickens, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not keep it if you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.
